

AMERICAN MILK VETCH

Photo by the late W. C. McCalla

Astragalus americanus (Hook.) Jones

The American Milk Vetch is one of our rare milk vetches but it is a fine species. The flowers are white and the pods are somewhat inflated. It has a creeping underground rootstock and it may be found in deep woods in the Cypress Hills.